

(8/16/16, Kathy Poshay) To me, this counselor is like the "Jesus father-son" → type that as far as I can figure has been "discovered" when the Autists came across Japan in their back and forth treks between the Americas and Asia and took captive, thus becoming the victims generationally-enslaved to carrying out the book of Revelation prophecies and using me for that, etc.

(Illustration altered slightly from Russell+ Wheeler's 2013 "God Is Disappointed In You" book and I'll write to them as soon as I can.)

"You need to stop playing the 'blame game.'"

2013 by Mark Russell
+ Shannon Wheeler

I'm trying to explain that
 ↗ Adam and Eve there were not really Adam and Eve, that that in those early-language and file-keeping days the Old World people had had no idea what the stranger-trekkers were and there was only confusion which became worse when the inhabitants of Japan were taken as captives and complained to by the Autists and older bewildered mainland-Asia captives. Not knowing anything, the ^{new} captives gave equal weight to the Autists' complaints and it's still that way today.

That's Eve's natural-mate Adam in the basket as the "serpent" from the Autists' view point. This goes with that "Of Mice and Men" other illustration;